

G-20Y Summit Detailed Agenda 2011 Paris, October 5-9

 Climate Change and Green Growth

While the climate change challenges become apparent, public policy is still moving very slowly. What are the key impediments for accelerated decision-making regarding this fundamental issue to human beings?

 Systematically Important Financial Institutions (SIFIs) – Resolution Tools and Regimes

What would be an appropriate approach to protect the global economy from the failure of a systematically important financial institution? What are the tools governments and prudential regulators can or must employ to avoid a collapsing global financial system?

 Shadow Banking

What are the reasons that shadow-banking systems are playing an increasingly critical role in the global financial system? How, if at all, should or can shadow-banking systems be regulated?

 Financial Stability and Regulatory Issues in Emerging Markets

Why is financial stability so important in the so-called emerging markets? What should or could be the conceptual framework for supervising and regulating the financial sector in these economies?

 Nuclear Non Proliferation – Status Quo, Potential Developments and Threats

What are the challenges of nuclear proliferation (and the challenges of avoiding nuclear proliferation) in the 21st century? How should the international community balance concerns about nuclear proliferation with valid nuclear energy needs?

 Integration of the Perspectives of the Islamic Countries into the G-20's Mission and Governance

What are the current issues in the so-called “Islamic Countries” and what is driving the change? To what extent should or could the Islamic countries be integrated into the G-20 system?

 Innovation, Technology, Communication, Social Mass Media and WikiLeaks – Opportunities and Risks

Innovation and new Technology revolutionize the business life and business models. With the birth of the information technology era, the media is becoming more important. The social networks are playing an increasingly significant role in. The questions such as how businesses and organizations need to learn how to use media as a channel of communication must be answered. How to persuade the media to focus more on actions that bring people together, rather than drive them apart?

 Regional Conflicts 2011 (i.e., Countries in North Africa) – G-20's Potential Role

Are decision-makers in the Middle East and North Africa region able to justify costs of economic growth, development and violence? How G-20's role can potentially reshape political agendas and business strategies of the Middle East and North Africa both within and beyond the region?
